

The Jumbo Shrimp Guide to

International Grape Varieties in Italy

The Jumbo Shrimp Guide to International Grape Varieties in Italy was created thanks to the collaboration between three writers that realised that in the current trend towards more and more obscure varieties, and the hunt for the lesser known wines, many great grapes, denominations and wines are overlooked in new literature about Italian wine. It's true that Italy has more than 500 nationally registered native grapes, but it's also true that in many regions of Italy some of the best wines are made using international varieties. The team wanted to explore this topic in a dedicated book for the first time, looking into not only the wines created from these grapes, but their history in the country, their rise to popularity, and how they're doing now. It of course also begins with a discussion about what makes a grape international in the first place!

In addition the team felt it was important to include pages dedicated to how the wines made from international grape varieties in Italy are distinguishable from those produced elsewhere. As a result this book is designed to be enjoyed by the casual consumer, as well as a useful tool for wine students and more experienced tasters.

All of this is conceived of course in the typical Jumbo Shrimp guide style - key information presented in an approachable and fun way that doesn't have to be tackled chronologically but can be dipped in and out of as the reader fancies.

Dettagli tecnici

ISBN 978-88-8429-104-2

Prezzo: € 10,00

Formato: 11x18 cm

N. di pagine: 128

Gli autori

Attilio Scienza is a full professor at the University of Milan in the Department of Agricultural and Food Sciences.

Rebecca Lawrence DipWSET is an educator, editor and consultant specialising in Italian wine.

Jacopo Fanciulli, VIA Italian Wine Ambassador and DipWSET Candidate. He has a degree in Communication Sciences, and Masters degrees in Enology and Marketing.

Silvia Albano is a graphic designer and illustrator.

Per i vostri ordini

☎ 0458103932

📄 0458102884

✉ libri@positivepress.net

🌐 www.positivepress.net

Seguici su 